Be Part of a Special Team that is Making a Difference

Holden International is a sales consulting and training company with a 32 year track record of improving B2B sales performance of organizations of all sizes. Recognized as the pioneer of the sales methodology industry with the introduction of Power Base® Selling in 1979, Holden has continued to innovate and today offers clients an integrated platform of sales transformation components including compete sales best practices, advanced sales training, sales manager coaching, software and e-learning reinforcement, and must win competitive deal coaching.

Holden International is seeking talented Sales Associates to support new business development and assist with existing account management and service

Differentiating Holden is its track record of results, which includes having helped over 600,000 sellers in 35 countries make how they sell—rather than what they sell—a nontraditional competitive advantage, thereby improving customer loyalty, win rates and cost of sales.

Enabling factors to Holden's success include:

- ✓ Deep experience in consulting on competitive sales deals
- ✓ Innovation and thought leadership fueled by research and data
- ✓ Insightful and coachable methodologies that make compete selling more of a management science that can be replicated
- ✓ Unique consultant talent: seasoned, insightful, dedicated & smart

These factors contribute to Holden's ability to drive sustainable adoption and the type of differentiated business impact associated with making the sales team a competitive advantage.
